

the Folk Legacy Trio

Three seasoned performers from legendary groups have joined to form the Folk Legacy Trio, singing your favorite songs from the great folk era of the '50s through the mid '70s. Each of these remarkable talents brings their years of experience to the Folk Legacy Trio in a display of vocal and instrumental excellence that has left audiences begging for more.

Packaging their repertoire as The Great American Folksong Book™, their signature dynamic harmonies will take you on a journey to the past, breathing new life into the beloved songs made famous by such artists as Peter, Paul & Mary, The Kingston Trio, Gordon Lightfoot, Simon & Garfunkel, The New Christy Minstrels, Bob Dylan and many more.

The Folk Legacy Trio is:

GEORGE GROVE, former member of The Kingston Trio for 41 years

RICK DOUGHERTY, formerly of The Limelickers and the Kingston Trio for 25 years

JERRY SIGGINS, formerly with the legendary doo-wop group The Diamonds for 27 years.

In spite of being together for only nine months, their outstanding performances earned them the cover shot on the June issue of the Vegas Voice, followed by sell-out crowds at their Las Vegas shows.

Bringing fans from their previous groups with them, they have already established a solid fan base that is eager to hear them in their new configuration.

This is a group that brings years of performance experience to the stage with stories and humor and harmonies that ring through the room. It's the very best of the great folk era in a show that sweeps audiences to their feet.

Here's what people are saying about the Folk Legacy Trio:

"Time both flies by and stands still when being entertained by artists of this level of excellence. This is one of those rare groups that could sing the phone book...and there would be something worthy to listen to."

Steve Preston - Director, Writing Center, Darton State College, Albany, GA

"There are few musicians today that have been charged with saving a genre of music. There are fewer yet that have the ability to do so. George, Rick and Jerry are accomplished in every facet of vocal performance and entertainment. With the recent resurgence of 'new folk' it is only fitting that the Folk Legacy Trio be formed as the foundation to a new generation of folk lovers."

Bob Poynton - The Lettermen

"The Folk Legacy Trio performed at the Rubicon Theatre to an audience who anticipated and expected a good performance, but got a great performance. Their songs matched our audience, and the quick sellout required an added performance. These guys delivered, and they succeeded in making new friends, not just new fans."

Jim O'Neil - Artistic Director Emeritus, Rubicon Theatre, Ventura, CA

"What a pleasure to hear some of my favorite songs done in the style of the wonderful groups that turned me on to folk music in the first place. Also so glad that they recorded Power & Glory, one of my brother's best songs! Thanks for such a treat!"
